

4th Annual MTS-IEEE Educators Workshop Marine Technology in the Classroom

Who: 6th-12th Grade Teachers and Informal Educators
What: Hands-on sessions plus marine technology experts
Where: Virginia Aquarium & Marine Science Center
When: Saturday, October 13th, 2012 8:30am - 5pm
Why: Learn to use marine technology in your classroom
PLUS: Chance to win an ROV-in-a-Bag kit

Apply NOW: This workshop is free and limited to 30 educators

Download an application at

<http://www.oceans12mtsieehamptonroads.org/>

Application deadline: Friday, September 21st, 2012

Continental breakfast and lunch provided

Certificates of Participation Provided

Workshop Activities:

- Three hands-on sessions: ROV-in-a-Bag by Erica Moulton, Marine Advanced Technology Education Center and Sense It - Mark Belden, Middle School Technology Educator, Schuylerville Middle School Schuylerville, NY and Basic Observation Buoys (BOBs) - Student Built Water Quality Measuring Systems that Contribute to Observation Systems : Douglas R. Levin, PhD Washington College, Center for Environment and Society
- Luncheon keynote provided by NOAA's Monitor National Marine Sanctuary. Learn how the National Marine Sanctuary protects and researches the wreck of the famed USS Monitor.
- Meet teachers experienced in providing STEM activity-based programs in their schools

For more information, please contact Erica Moulton at emoulton@marinetech.org or 727-804-2730

